English

like / would like

What's the difference?

like = fancy, prefer, to be fond of Questions are formed using do/does:

Do you like apple juice?
Does she like pizza?

Negations are formed by adding don't/ doesn't:

I don't like apple juice. She doesn't like pizza. would like ('d like) = subconjunctive

 Questions are formed by repositioning "would like":

Would you like to learn English?
Would he like to go to cinema?

•Negations are formed by adding "n´t" to end of "would":

I wouldn't like to learn English.
He wouldn't like to go to the cinema.

How would you begin the following sentences?

Do you like or Would you like?

Do you like	_ American films?
Would you like	_ a glass of apple juice?
Do you like	_ classical music?
Do you like	_ wine?
Would you like	_ to see that film on TV?
Would you like	_ a glass of wine?
Would you like	_ to listen this song?
Would you like	_ a cup of coffee?
Do you like	_ fish?
Do you like	_ jeans?
_ Would you like	_ to go to the station?
_ Would you like	_some carrots?

Would you like to live in Australia?

